Village Board Writes $119,033 Shopping List For Next Fiscal Year

Budget Will Include Vast Sewer, Water Program If Approved

At a special meeting of the Antioch Village Board held late last week, a budget of $119,033 was figured as the amount necessary to operate the village for the coming year.

While the proposed figure is nearly double the $60,000 appropriated for expenses last year, Atty. Edward Jacobs explained that $45,000 of the new figure will go towards a new sewer and water expansion program.

A breakdown of the $119,033 total shows that $53,733 will be used for the general corporate fund, with the difference between that and the total going into the water and sewer fund for bonds and interest.

State Word Awaited

Village officials are still waiting for the State Sanitary Water Board to voice approval of plans and specifications of the proposed deep-water well, before they can seek bids for sinking the well, laying pipe, and constructing a pump house.

Village Engineer David Miller sent all specifications to the state office several weeks ago, with hopes that they would have been approved in time for the recent appropriations meeting, so that bids could have been let at that time.

The proposed well will be located east of the Soo Line tracks. Preliminary tests have indicated it may be a 500-gallon well.

Once the new water system becomes an actuality, it has been reported, the Crown Realty Company of Cross Lake subdivision will hook onto the Antioch water system at Ida ave., thus providing additional revenue for the water department.

Antioch's Girl Scouts Attend Camp Session Of Lakeside Council

Girl Scouts from Antioch Troops 5 and 38, and from Grass Lake Troop 6 were among the 100 who participated in the four-day Lakeside Council camping trip at Druce Lake June 8 through 11.

Of the 100 girls there, however, only Joan Topercer of the Grass Lake troop was able to identify 30 wild plants and qualify for the difficult Wild Plant badge. Other winners in this group were: Anna, belle Hribar, Kathleen Burk and Pat Jesse.

Other girls from the Grass Lake troop who attended the camping session were Annabelle Hribar, Kathleen Burk, Pat Jesse, Judy Maleck, Karen Hermadick, Louise Mani, Marge Lehmann, Pat Byrnes, Nancy Nemec, and Diane Graycke.

Leaders were Katherine Halvorsen, Marcella Jesse, and Marie Nemec.

Girls from Troop 5, led by Mrs. Clarence Olson, Mrs. Walter Good, and Mrs. C. A. Wolfbarger, were Perry Gallagher, Marian Smith, Carol Healy, Trudy Good, Sharon Dittman, Carol Bartoloni, Sonia Pickus, Barbara Yates, Fay Mann, Charlotte Janet Kelsier, and Carolyn Stoffel.

Troop 38 was represented by Peggy Cardiff, Sigrid Peterson, Betsy Frazier, Kathy Arndt, Karen Rentner, Luisa Vos, Barbara Smith, and Judy Zellizer. Mrs. E. F. Vos and Mrs. R. Wright were the leaders.

Camp nurse was Jane Breakstone, who saw to it that everybody returned in A-1 shape. The girls all reported having a wonderful time.

Big Crowd Is Expected At Outing Next Month Of Republican Women

All women in the 13th Congressional District are invited to the outing, to be held at the State Conservation school on Fox Lake, Lake Villa.

A nationally known authority on conservation will be the speaker, and a picnic buffet luncheon will be served on the terrace and lawns of the former Deering estate.

EDITORIAL

Set the alarm clock so it won't go off Sunday, and let him sleep late. Then go out and get the papers and serve them to him, along with his breakfast in bed.

And if he insists on mowing that lawn, or putting around in the garden, instead of going fishing like he ought to—mix up a glass of ice cold lemonade and set it under the nearest tree.

When he sits down, in front of the television set and switches on the ball game, just when your favorite cowboy show comes on, don't say a word—just this once. Better still, take him to that ball game in person.

You know who we're talking about—the guy who paddled your pants when you were small, and who never let you stay out as late as "the other kids."

The guy who also bought your first pair of shoes, and who passed out cigars to celebrate your arrival before you were even old enough to say his name.

Well, Sunday's the day you show your appreciation for him. It's his day—the one day of the year when Prince Pop officially becomes King Father.

And you're in charge of the Coronation.

Newport Dist. 11 Votes For New Schoolhouse By A 5 To 1 Majority

Newport Township school district 11 residents, balloting in Rosecrans school Saturday, voted more than five to one to go ahead with plans for the construction of a $130,000 school building, to be located on the Barnes site, a half mile east of Skokie highway off Rte. 173.

The Richard farm, five miles east of Antioch and a quarter-mile north of Rte. 173 on Mill Creek rd., lost out as site for the new school by a count of 159 to 31.

Of a total of 210 votes cast, 168 were in favor of purchasing the school site, with 30 opposed. The remainder were spoiled ballots. The vote for building the school was 165 to 31, and for floating a bond issue to pay for it, 165 to 37.

American Legion to Hold 10th Dist. Vote At Lake Bluff Friday

The 10th District American Legion, of which Antioch Post 748 is a part, will elect officers tomorrow at the Lake Bluff Grade school. District Cmdr. Harold O. Meyers has urged all post commanders and adjutants to check lists of delegates and alternates representing their posts, and to notify District Adjutant Charles E. Donath of any changes.

Each post should also have its per capita tax paid up by tomorrow night, and at the same time submit any new signed membership cards.

Cmdr. Meyers advised that any posts which do not have delegates or alternates up to date in the event of a roll call at tomorrow night's election "may face some embarrassment."

HERE'S SOME GOOD NEWS

The Antioch News does not print a single obituary in this week's edition, because there is none to print. No deaths of present or former residents of this area have been reported in the past week.

Antioch Rescue Squad Recovers Body of Youth Who Took "First Swim" in Rock Lake Sunday

An 18-year-old Illinois youth, going swimming for the first time this year, drowned Sunday in Rock Lake (Salem Township) just north of here.

He was Patrick O'Neill, Evergreen Park, who was enjoying a weekend outing with his brother and twin sister at the cottage of a friend.

Members of the Antioch Rescue squad, summoned after the youth went down and did not reappear, used grappling hooks to recover the body. By then, however, the boy had been under water an estimated 45 minutes, and efforts to revive him were futile.

The O'Neill youth, along with his brother, Thomas, 17, and sister, Mary, 18, had been visiting with Carl Stocklose, who is building a home on Rock lake, when the tragedy occurred.

The two brothers had gone swimming Sunday morning, and Patrick decided to make for a raft an-

Delinquent Taxpayers Warned by State's Atty. To Pay Up Or Else!!

Wages, Autos, TV Sets, or Other Belongings Will Make up Difference

Wage garnishments and bank account attachments, with cars and television sets going next, will be the possible penalties for 18 tax-delinquent Antioch residents if they don't shell out the required amount of cash by this Saturday, State's Atty. Robert Nelson warned Tuesday.

Meeting with Antioch Justice of the Peace John E. Hogan, and other county justices Monday in the court-house in Waukegan, Nelson announced that the state's attorney's office will begin to collect all personal property taxes back to 1938.

Judgments will be obtained in County or Circuit court, Nelson said, and vigorous attempts made to collect, including levying on automobiles, television sets, bank accounts, livestock, and wages, if necessary. Any judgments not satisfied by those means, will automatically result in a lien against any real estate owned by the delinquent.

Here in Antioch, notices to 18 delinquent tax payers have been mailed out, with the violators scheduled for trial in Justice E. Hogan's court on Saturday.

League standings now are Waukegan, first, with six wins and two losses; Spring Grove, second, with four and four; Antioch, third, with three wins and five losses, and Ringwood, fourth, with two wins and six defeats.

The Antioch team will meet league-leading Waukegan this Friday night, and next Tuesday evening they will battle last-place Ringwood at the Antioch high school diamond.

At their forthcoming appearance, the Moose team will be garbed in their new uniforms, sponsored by local merchants.

Rev. G. Richard Tuttle To Give Final Service

A farewell Communion service has been planned at the Methodist church of Antioch for 11 a. m. Sunday. It will be the last to be preached by the Rev. G. Richard Tuttle as pastor of the church.

Word was received here this week of the appointment of Rev. Tuttle, pastor of the Antioch church for the past six years, to the Methodist Church of Sunnyside, Wash.

Sunnyside is a town of some 4,500 persons, located on the eastern slope of the Cascade mountains. It is in the Columbia River District of the Pacific Northwest Conference of the Methodist church.

The Rev. and Mrs. Tuttle and family will leave Monday for the Pacific coast. At his final service Sunday he will bring a Communion meditation. Special music will also be provided. All are cordially invited to attend.

For the first time in years, a major league tryout camp will be set up almost within walking distance for Antioch area young men interested in becoming big leaguers. The Philadelphia Phils midwestern tryout camp will be held at Simmons Field, just south of Kenosha on Rte. 32 (42) today and tomorrow.

Eddie Jrajnik, Phil's top scout, will have several other "ivory hunters" on hand at the sessions, looking over candidates in the 16 to 22-year age group. Players are asked to bring their own uniforms, gloves and shoes.

State Patrolmen Seek Missing Chicago Man

State police officers scoured northern Illinois the past three days in a vain effort to locate some trace of State Rep. Clem Graver, missing Chicago politician.

The search shifted to this area after a six-day search of the Chicago area, where Graver disappeared Thursday night, proved futile.

State police squads hunted through wooded areas, inspected creeks, and other natural hiding places for traces of either the missing Chicagoan or an abandoned automobile.

Witnesses to the kidnapping said the thugs drove off in a 1950 or 1951 black Ford.

Village Postoffice Wins Promotion! Now First Class

Biggest Changes Will Mean Smaller Parcels and Higher Box Rate

Antioch Postmaster Roy I. Kufalk received official word yesterday confirming the advancement of the Antioch postoffice from second class to first class.

Numerous changes in clerical procedure will be involved, but the major changes affecting the public will be a decrease in the size and weight of parcels accepted for mailing, and an increase in the rental of lock boxes—the first since 1907.

Parcels now mailed from the local postoffice for delivery to another first class postoffice (in continental United States only) must have a weight limit of 40 pounds in the local, first, or second zones; and 20 pounds in zones three through eight. Size of the parcels will be limited to 72 inches in length and girth combined.

List Exceptions

Exceptions include parcels mailed on, or addressed to a rural or star route, or parcels containing baby fowl, nursery stock, agricultural commodities, or specified types of books.

Other exceptions are parcels mailed from, or addressed to any second, third, or fourth class postoffice, or to the armed forces, or U. S. Possessions. Such cases have a weight limit of 70 pounds, and a size limit of 100 inches.

"In measuring a parcel, the greatest distance in a straight line between ends is taken as the length, while distance around the parcel at its thickest point is taken as the girth," Kufalk explained.

He cautioned that postal laws prohibit diverting parcels to another class office to circumvent limits imposed on a first class office.

Although the basic rate of box rentals at the postoffice here has remained unchanged since 1907, the increased cost of providing equipment and maintaining service necessitates a new schedule of box rates, Kufalk explained.

New rental fees are as follows: No. 1 (small size) $1.10; No. 2, (medium) $1.50, and No. 3, (drawer size) $2.25.

Contest Ends July 17

Following very closely behind the first five are Pat Haydon, Wendy Midgley, Rosalie Morris, JoAnne Quilty, Loraine Steinel and Nancy Swenson.

Contest entries closed last night, with final contestant being Loraine Steinel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Steinel, North ave. She is sponsored by the Illinois Bell Telephone company.

The names of all contestants will be listed periodically in this publication until the contest ends.

SET BRISTOL ELECTION

BRISTOL—Elections will be held in three Bristol township school districts next Wednesday, to determine whether or not they should consolidate. Sleek New Car Shown With Old Time Models

Springfield, Ill., June 15—Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter, sponsor and grand marshal of this year's State Fair Antique Auto Meet, has announced that a "car of tomorrow" will be on display with the "grand old cars of yesterday" at the Illinois State Fair, which opens here August 14.

Buick Motor division of General Motors corporation has agreed to send its Wildcat XIC, an experimental fiberglass car for display at the fair.

The futuristic Buick, which made its debut this year, will be on display, along with more than 50 ancient vintage cars during the entire ten days of the fair, Secretary Carpenter said.

On August 22, the day preceding the close of the fair, several hundred more antique cars will converge on Springfield for a day-long meet, judging for prizes, and a one-lap parade of the grandstand race track preceding the AAA 100 mile auto race.

Applications for entry in the meet will be available shortly.

Drive to End Saturday for Educational Channel

The Antioch fund drive to obtain donations to help finance TV educational Channel 11, will end here Saturday, it was announced today by High School Principal Albert Dittman, local fund chairman.

Original deadline was June 2, but it was extended after the Federal Communications Commission in Washington, D. C., issued a public statement that, because educational television organization needed more time to prepare for TV than do commercial interests, the added time would help insure the possibilities of such a channel becoming an actuality.

The station, expected to go on the air next spring for a 30-hour week, will operate five hours a day for six days each week, and will provide programs of interest to all age groups, without clashing competitively with present commercial TV stations.

Great Logic

A few weeks ago President Eisenhower discussed, at a press conference, certain cuts in defense expenditures he is recommending. He vividly described the philosophy that governs his thinking in these words: "I have always . . . believed that there is a great logic in the conduct of military affairs. There is an equally great logic in economic affairs. If these two logical disciplines can be wedded, it is then possible to create a situation of maximum military strength within economic capacities."

"If, on the other hand, these two are allowed to proceed in disregard one for the other, you then create a situation either of doubtful military strength, or of such precarious economic strength that your military position is in constant jeopardy."

The President thus said, in effect, that a sound government economy is as important to our defense and survival as actual military power—that reckless, unbridled spending can be as dangerous as a foreign foe. That is as refreshing and as important an attitude as we have seen in high places in government in many a long year.

The Pendulum Swings

For 20 years there has been a drive to promote the growth of central authority at the expense of private enterprise and individual opportunity. Profound changes have been wrought in the character of our economic and political life. Call it socialism or whatever you like, it's a fact that the federal government in competition with private industry has a $130,000,000,000 stake in loans, insurance, factories, railroads, electric systems, ships and countless other things.

Now the pendulum is swinging in the opposite direction and the pressure is growing for a contraction of government ventures into fields once reserved for private business and finance. RFC, the biggest lending agency, probably will be liquidated or greatly modified in 1954. Federally-operated Inland Waterways Corporation, the second biggest barge line in the U. S. is up for sale. Twenty-six synthetic rubber plants will go to private industry. Federal power development is being cut and there is talk of selling or leasing existing tax-exempt federal electric power facilities to highly taxed private industry.

With its recourse to the tax rolls and public credit the federal government is the one competitor with which private industry cannot be expected to compete. This trend away from government in business gives a new lease on life to our personal freedoms and opportunities. Economic freedom is the base upon which we have built our political freedom.

Since Andy Jackson's Day

According to a recent AP story, "The United States spends more money forecasting the weather now than it cost to run the whole government during Andy Jackson's Administration."

That fact isn't cited as a criticism of the weather service. But it is a striking example of how government has got out of hand, and how vital it is that every non-essential activity be eliminated and every possible nickel cut from the budget.

What Coal Means

Suppose you had a quantity of that common black fuel, bituminous coal, and the necessary mechanical and chemical equipment to transform it into different commodities. What could you produce and manufacture?

First of all, you could produce heat and light. Coal is the source of a great part of all the electric power we use—and it is responsible for practically all of this power in some of our greatest industrial regions.

You could also make the coke that is essential to steel production. It actually takes a ton of coal to make a ton of steel.

After you'd done these things, you'd be just beginning. For the chemical derivatives of coal—existing and potential—are close to endless. Here are some in common use: Tar, roofing, explosives, sulfur, plastics, and a large number of pharmaceuticals.

Coal's usefulness has been enormously increased in a comparatively brief period of time—and current research and experiment indicate that we are on the verge of still greater discoveries. That's why coal is called one of the most versatile of substances.

The Low Down from Hickory Grove

The matter for discussion during this study period is, "are we growing wiser with time or are we becoming more simple." I say, to open the seminar, that I lean toward the "getting more simple" side.

I go now into "money" and what is free money—Govt. gift money. The thought of the land seems to overlook how come Sambo has this big dinero in his jeans. It is there, so the gent at the lunch club says, let's get ours, boys, before some other town or county grabs it. And the club votes unanimously to get the "gift" dinero. And it is a smart-enough looking bunch, too, nibbling there on the smorgasbord or whatever it is that is being nibbled. All of 'em pay taxes. They vote as though they knew not that it was their very own cash money that they handed the tax man the day before that is the foundation for the "gift" offered today.

Anybody caring to take the "yes" side on the "growing wise" claim, he will please stand up and show cause for doubting my claim that grandpa—150 years ago—would not have been a sucker for any fool talk that there is such an animal as "free Govt. dinero." Grandpa was no green pea.

Chevrolet trucks must be the best buy!

Fleet operators, farmers, independent truckers—truck users everywhere—buy more Chevrolets than any other make. There can be only one reason for that: Chevrolet trucks offer more of what you want.

As the official registration figures keep rolling in, they keep telling the same positive story about truck popularity and truck value: Again in 1953, for the twelfth straight production year, truck buyers show a clear-cut and decisive preference for Chevrolet trucks. If you're a truck user, this fact is mighty important to you. Why? Well, as you know, trucks are built and bought for just one reason—to do a job. So isn't it logical then that since Chevrolet trucks outsell all others, they must do a better job at lower cost? That's why it will pay you to stop in and see us before you buy your next truck.

SHORT STORY

You Can't Change Love

By Glynn St. John

HELENE was a cheat. In all the story books she had read, the girl who met the fascinating and charming hero always decided she loved him, and promised to marry him, before she found out he was a millionaire or a famous writer or something. With Helene it hadn't worked that way. She had found out that Gunner Whimple had inherited a gold mine down in Mexico somewhere and right after that she decided she was in love with him. She felt like a cheat. It would have been much more romantic and glamorous if they had eloped, she believed him to be the irresponsible, poverty-stricken playboy he pretended.

Helene pulled the navy blue picture hat onto the back of her head and lifted her chin. Well, she thought, you can't change love, no matter what.

She went out. Gunner was waiting for her in the lobby.

"You look marvelous, darling!"

He offered his arm. She was conscious of staring eyes as they walked through the lobby. She suspected that a good many of those stares were envious. Why not? That was only natural. There were girls in the lobby who had known Gunner all their lives.

It amused her to think how she had met him only two short weeks ago. She, a schoolteacher, had come to Ocean Bluffs for her vacation. She was crowding the whole three months this year into three weeks, so she could stay at the fashionable Ocean Bluffs House, and live like a lady.

She had met Gunner the second day. She had driven a golf ball into the rough and it had darned near knocked him for a row of brassies. That was the beginning. They played the remainder of the course together. They had had dinner that night. They had danced later. They had motored into the country the next day, and played tennis the next and swam and hiked along the beach.

When she had seen that the affair was getting serious she had decided to be honest about herself. That much was to her credit. She had told him, a little fearfully, about her past. And the truth was, he had seemed relieved. He had admitted that his own circumstances weren't unlike her own. He really couldn't afford to stay at Ocean Bluffs, but all his friends were there and he hoped to pick up a little money on the side as a professional golfer.

Helene had been disappointed. She was honest about that, too. She had believed that any one who stayed at Ocean Bluffs was fabulously wealthy. But, thinking about it now, she had decided it didn't really make any difference.

Learning about the gold mine had been purely accidental. There had been a telegram waiting for Gunner yesterday when they returned to the hotel. She couldn't help seeing it the way he held it in his hands.

It was that evening that he proposed, and she had accepted.

Gunner stopped his car on a high bluff above a rocky shore, a spot that was familiar to both of them. For a moment he sat staring soberly toward Provincetown Light, vaguely outlined on the horizon. He said presently:

"Helene, there's something I want to explain. You've probably heard talk around the hotel about my inheriting a gold mine." He laughed shortly, nervously. "Please don't put any stock in it. The mine hasn't been worked for years. It isn't worth a nickel."

A little chill ran up and down Helene's back. She forced a smile. "I hadn't heard any talk of a gold mine," she heard herself saying. Which was true.

"Good!" Gunner exclaimed. "I wanted you to know the truth. I haven't any profession, except golf. I haven't any job. I—I'm not much of a success—now. With you I feel I can lick the world. But I want to be fair. I want you to know what you're stepping into. There's still a chance to change your mind, if you want."

Helene caught her breath. Well, well! Just like the story books. Here was her opportunity to be a martyr, a hero. Here was the test. No gold mines. No job. Just Gunner.

Weather Prophets?

The cheerful songs of tree frogs are heard most often during damp weather and before a storm. Thus they have been given an undeserved reputation as weather prophets, but really it is only because they are stirred to life by unusual moisture in the air.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

George Keith Funston is a man to watch these days.

Not only is he president of the New York Stock Exchange, but he is also selling an idea.

The idea has power, too, because it protects entrenched interests, yet is dramatized as something to benefit the "little man."

Washington observers say it is the greatest razzle-dazzle promotion since "30 every Thursday."

C. W. Harder

Funston wants to permit the "little man" to buy, as he terms it, a share in American industry, through installment buying of common stocks.

However, sales of common stocks on same basis as washing machines and autos would be restricted to common stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

This qualification is interesting.

Successful public acceptance of this plan would not only siphon off capital used to start new enterprises, but would also entrench firms financially powerful enough to have their common stock listed. Thousands of people who are buying X-Gadget Common on a dollar down, a dollar a week basis, can easily be led to take economic and political measures to keep a new, independent competitive Gadget company from endangering X-Gadget in the market place.

Also big profits would accrue to stock traders who would benefit by resulting inflation of common stock prices.

(© National Federation of Independent Business)

Actually, the plan would supply needed bolstering to common stock trading volume, because "insiders" are turning more to preferred stocks for investment purposes.

There are many reasons for this trend. Among them is concern over management action in some of the bigger corporations. Not only are top executives receiving six figure salaries, they are also being pledged big retirement salaries, which in some cases, are to be handed down to their heirs.

In final analysis, stockholders pay for these elaborate feils, but such is the nature of the business of some corporations, pretexts by even large segments of stockholders are fruitless.

But in a corporation set up there is usually preferred and common stock, ordinarily taking precedence in payment of dividends. This preferred stock is more attractive.

Thus Funston plans, it is felt, to scatter the chaff over the nation, while the good, sound kernels are held by professional investors and traders.

There is also a moral side. Nothing guarantees the price constancy of any common stock. Usually, price fluctuates with the amount of dividends paid.

Thus, Funston's plan would permit people to gamble on the installment plan.

This aspect has led some observers to say that if this plan is approved, there is only one more logical step to be taken.

That would be to legalize racing bookmakers who will advertise "Bets placed on ten percent down with 36 months to pay the balance."

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davis of Wales, Wis., spent Monday afternoon at the Ed Hoffman home.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lucas are spending this week near Eagle River, Wis.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip McDonald and family of Rockford spent Sunday at the A. B. McDonald home.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Stahnke and daughter, Jill, of Elgin spent several days at the Leslie Bonner home.

Mrs. Anna Huff of Milwaukee is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Frank Hauser.

Mr. and Mrs. Howell Kenlmer and family left Sunday morning for a vacation trip to Columbus, Ga., where they will visit relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Harness and daughter, Virginia, attended the wedding of Alan Thomas and Jane Zeilbeck at St. Anastasia church Saturday morning.

Mrs. Eva Alling of Waukegan was a caller at the Frank Edwards home Sunday evening.

The Millburn Maidens' 4-H club met at the church Tuesday evening. In their first aid project, Phyllis Lahey gave a demonstration on "Pressure Points in stopping bleeding."

Mary Schwicht gave a demonstration on cooking eggs and making deviled eggs, is included in their project of "Use of Milk and Eggs." The girls are also studying "flower arrangements" and Mrs. Kenneth Young gave a demonstration and criticisms of her flower arrangements, which was a help to the girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Kem and family of Waukegan spent Sunday at the James Lahey home.

What results from Hidrolex? Test after test, and actual farm users, show that chicks fed Doughboy Chick Starter Jets (containing Hidrolex) make 25% faster weight gains. These chicks grow rapidly into healthier, more productive layers. Mortality goes down, too! Pigs fed Doughboy Pig Starter Jets (containing Hidrolex) go on dry feed faster—because the sugars in Hidrolex make the feed much more palatable. It is one of 14 meetings being held in various parts of the state this year by the association, which has sponsored similar sessions since 1950. Lake County this year had 274 students enrolled in the University.

The June 24 meeting will be at 8 p. m. Coming to speak briefly and to answer questions will be R. E. Hulet, assistant dean of men; Miss Agnes G. Tanberg, associate dean of women; C. S. Sifferd, of the University Housing Division; and H. E. Temmer, examiner and recorder at the University's Chicago Undergraduate Division on Navy Pier.

Old Friends Meet

SOUTH BEND, IND.—When Harold S. He recalled that it was identical to the one in which his father, the late Thomas A. Edison, drove when he was a boy. Vance told him that the famous inventor purchased the second electric produced by Studebaker.

WASHINGTON AND

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

In present Congressional considerations of a Taft-Hartley Labor Act overhaul the proposal by R-p. Winifred H. Lucas (D., Tex.) to outlaw industrywide bargaining ranks among the most important.

As to be expected, Big Labor allied with a few major corporations oppose amendment, proving once again that circumstances make strange bedfellows.

The facts are these. Industrywide labor bargaining gives a few leaders in any industry a powerful weapon to freeze the status of independent competition; discourage start of new competitors.

As it stands now, labor and a few firms in an industry, can set the regulations on wages, hours, pension plans, and other trimmings that all in the industry must follow.

In a typical industry today, three firms will do 70% of the business. Around 500 other firms of an independent status will also be in the industry. Yet, the terms by which these 500 independent firms must operate are often determined by Big Three.

The Big Three, in a high tax bracket, operating with stockholders' money, are not too particular about a deal they make with labor.

But an independent firm in a lower tax bracket, and without unlimited stockholders' funds has no such latitude. But by a strange circumstance, his operating costs are fixed for him by his biggest competitors.

From the worker's standpoint, there are also many reasons why the National Federation of Independent Business

SHORT STORY

Old Fashioned Idea

By Janis McCarthy

"BUT, Ben, darling," Daphne argued, "customs have changed. It isn't wrong for a married woman to be seen with another man when her husband's away. It's the thing, I mean, like using rouge and women smoking and things."

Dr. Ben Jenson smiled faintly. "I guess I'm old-fashioned, honey. I can't get over the idea that because I'm a doctor it would hurt my profession if folks knew you were tramping around with Jim Landon, for example, while I'm up in the woods hunting."

"Boosh! Folks wouldn't think a thing about it. You are old-fashioned, dear. You're going to be gone three weeks and Jim is fun." Her eyes searched his. "You trust me don't you, Ben?"

"Of course!" He patted her hand and went out.

Ben left on his annual fall hunting trip the next day. He hadn't had a vacation for 13 months. He was worn out, his nerves on edge. He needed to get away.

At Union Station he met Deke Pease, his hunting companion, and they boarded the train for Faltark. At Faltark they shifted to the spur line, and the next night they landed in the backwoods town of River's End. The lodge, much to their astonishment, was nearly filled. There were a dozen society people there from New York. There were newspaper men and photographers. Ben was disgusted.

"This is as bad as Newport," he said to Deke. "Let's start into the woods first thing in the morning."

Deke looked doubtful. "Weather forecast is bad. Big storm coming. Some of this gang were planning on going, but gave up the idea."

That evening the society folks held a celebration. There was a lot of drinking and rough housing. Photographers ran around taking pictures of everyone. Ben and Deke retired early, but the noise kept them awake all night. Nevertheless they were up by dawn. They breakfasted, then started out on horseback with old Jake Keith as guide.

The snow came just before they reached Jake's cabin. It turned out to be the worst storm of the century. The next morning drifts were piled cave-high about the cabin. It snowed for four days. There was nothing for the cabin occupants to do but sit around and wish it would stop. Thus with time on his hands, Ben found his thoughts running riot. He thought of Daphne and Jim Landon. He brooded. His mind became tortured. Being thus cut off from civilization made things worse. He couldn't get out if he wanted to.

Daphne stared at the picture in the newspaper. It showed Ben smiling down at a very attractive girl in hunting togs. The caption said that Dr. Ben Jenson was included in the group of society lights who were enjoying the hunting season at River's End. Tomorrow they were all going into the woods together.

Daphne smiled, but the smile died on her lips. She was thinking of Ben and that attractive girl way off in the woods. People did curious things when civilization was remote. Conventions and propriety didn't seem to count much. She remembered the send-off she'd given Ben. He'd probably get thinking about it and feel he had the right to act as he pleased.

Suddenly Daphne's hands were cold. She picked up the phone on her bedside table and asked to be put through to the lodge at River's End. The report came back that the lodge couldn't be reached because of the storm. All communication lines were down.

Daphne's maid came in to announce that Jim Landon was down, stairs.

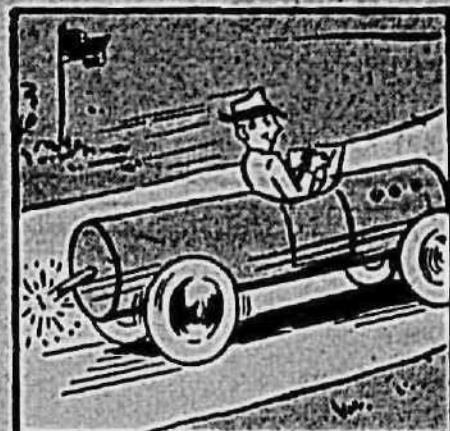

"Tell him I can't see him. Tell him I'm ill. Tell him anything!" The shrillness of her own voice startled her. She picked up the paper again and glared at the picture. What if Ben should start comparing this jolly looking girl with his wife? Guiltily she thought how poorly she would stack up. And it was her own fault. She began pacing the floor. Life without Ben would be pretty empty. It was nice fooling around with Jim Landon—so long as she had Ben as an anchor.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES F. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

Another holiday weekend—one of the most popular of the entire year, July 4—is rapidly approaching. Soon you will see stories in your newspapers, if they haven't already appeared, predicting how many people will lose their lives in traffic crashes during the two-day period.

Don't let your name be listed in the accident stories which appear in newspapers next Monday. Stay off the highways, if you possibly can, but if you do take a drive, visit relatives, go on a picnic or to the beach, drive carefully all the time.

Don't speed. Speeding can be dangerous enough on a clear highway, but when traffic is heavy the danger is multiplied many times. Don't drive too long, so you become tired, irritable and impatient.

Above all be courteous. You'll meet roadhogs, boobs, showoffs and a variety of other menaces who will tempt you to "get even." Forget it. You can read about them in the paper on Monday.

Teenagers are by no means the only group of people who fail to take safety precautions when driving motor vehicles, but the natural heedlessness and exuberance of youth frequently makes it difficult to convince them of the need for caution.

Illinois law gives parents an additional control over them, however. The driver licenses of those under 18 years of age may be cancelled at the parents' request. (Section 29d, Motor Vehicle Law.)

The law requires that applicants for driver licenses who are under 18 must have the written consent of a parent or guardian, and it also states that if the parent or guardian requests cancellation of the license, the Secretary of State shall comply with the request. Parents, in effect, have a moral responsibility to require their teenage children to operate a motor vehicle properly.

All too often, older drivers get away with reckless driving through a combination of luck, in not being caught by law enforcement officers and the agility of other drivers in getting out of their way. Unless their recklessness catches up with them in a court of record, they are able to retain their driving privileges. But parents of the younger ones can control them before they get into a serious crash or a courtroom, or both.

Year's Medical Gains Termed 'Exceptional' By A.M.A. President

NEW YORK—The past year was hailed as "one of exceptional progress in medical science" by Dr. Edward J. McCormick, Toledo, O., who was installed as the 107th president of the American Medical Association here.

He predicted that doctors of the future will devote much of their work to disease prevention. In his inaugural address, "American Medicine's Report to the Nation"—at the Hotel Commodore, the Ohio surgeon also:

Lauded the expenditure of nearly a quarter billion dollars for expansion of medical schools in the past three years, and said:

Dr. McCormick also is strongly supporting such programs. Explained that studies show physician shortages are caused "not by a nationwide lack of doctors, but primarily by faulty distribution due to professional factors related to their practice."

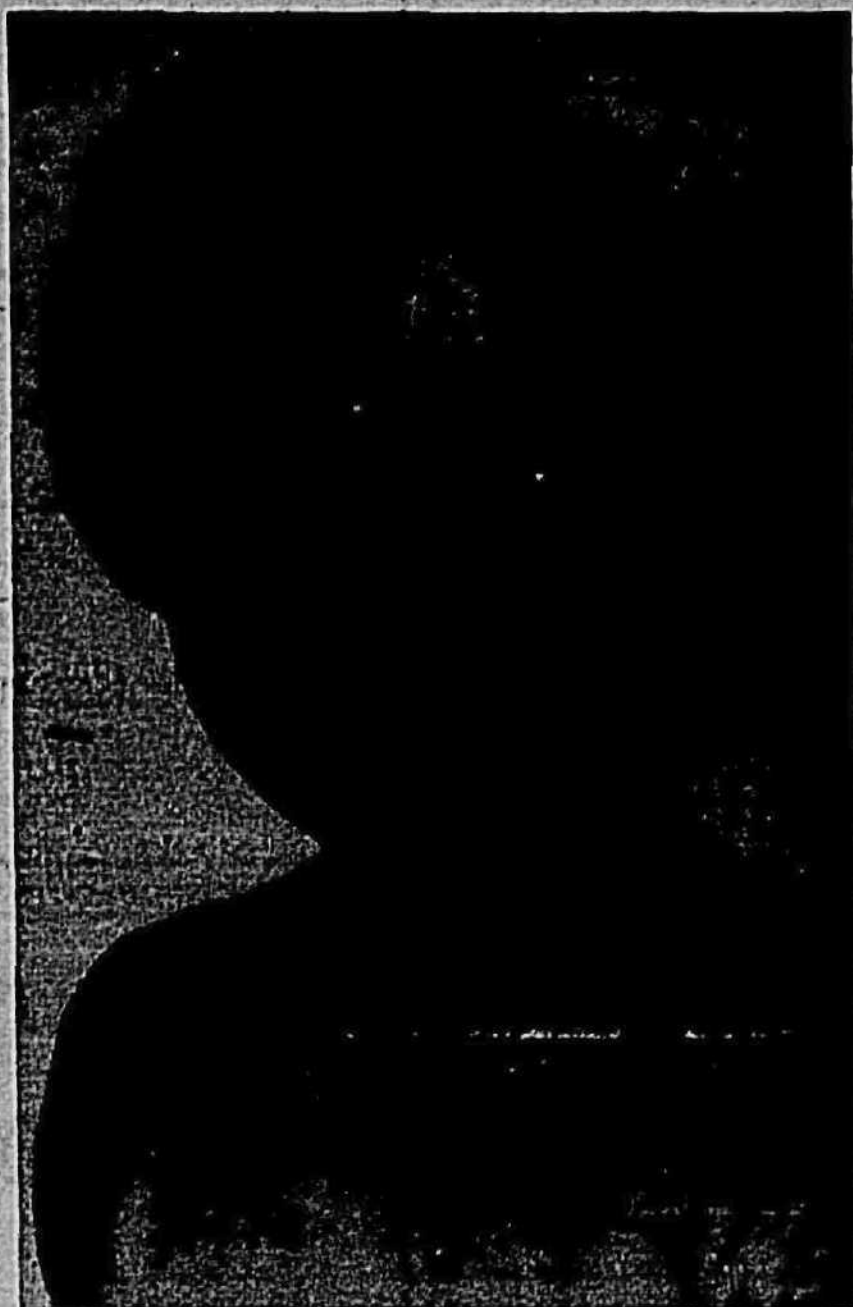

Called upon the nation's doctors to move vigorously in ridding their ranks of "the small number of greedy and godless physicians who flagrantly violate the traditions of the medical profession."

Dr. McCormick cited as among the outstanding medical achievements of the past year the tests which showed that gamma globulin could at least temporarily prevent paralytic polio, and progress in development of a vaccine against all three known polio viruses.

Dr. McCormick also said the A.M.A. is advocating the further establishment of physician placement services, which are already being operated by medical societies in 37 states. Many small communities are now able to obtain doctors through these services.

He asked county medical societies to move speedily in expelling unethical physicians where they are found, but urged that the job be done "in an orderly fashion, making effective use of the disciplinary machinery already available."

So This is HOUSEKEEPING

One of the reasons why many a bride gets mad enough to grind her teeth into powder is the assurance of her soul mate that the "little gal" has a comparatively easy time of it while he's out sweating and toiling the live-long day. He should only stay at home some washday and watch how the other half lives, as Jeff had to do not long ago because of a cold.

A few days later he casually announced that there were a few dollars "wasting away" in the bank that might better be employed in the purchase of some laundry equipment. Hal:

"Remember, we haven't got much space," he screamed, but I had already squeezed into my bonnet and was stretching my nylon in the direction of the nearest dealer store to gaze fondly on the wonders of dryers and washers.

Long before the sun had set that day I had a new love in my life—or I should say two loves, for it consists of two units, the "Whirlpool Compact Couple," matching dryer and washer. And as far as space goes, why it takes up less room than a couple of small kitchen chairs! 48 1/2" wide and 24 1/2" deep according to my ruler, and to almost echo my husband's space is something that this family has to hoard like a miser.

Another cute innovation is casters. Both washer and electric dryer can be wheeled away and stored when not in use. What a change from the "hope it will be sunny tomorrow" routine. Now every day is a perfect drying day with no "fuss or muss" as the man says. The dryer units are available in either gas or electric models.

I could hardly believe it when I found that the capacity of my compact couple was the same as many small "standard-size" washers and dryers. Controls on the top of the back assure convenience for you and protection for the careless reconnaissance known as childhood.

The only thing I have to worry about now is the possibility of becoming an afternoon television addict. Come to think of it though, what's wrong with that!

SCIENCE and your Health

PROBLEMS OF PREGNANCY by Science Features

The hazards of maternity are fast diminishing in the United States. The death rate from diseases of pregnancy and childbirth has been reduced by more than 80 per cent since 1930.

But some medical complications still remain unsolved. Probably the most puzzling of these are the so-called toxemias (Greek, poison-blood) of pregnancy, which account for some 25 per cent of all maternal deaths. No one knows exactly what causes these toxemias, and no one has been able to isolate the toxin, or poison, which causes them.

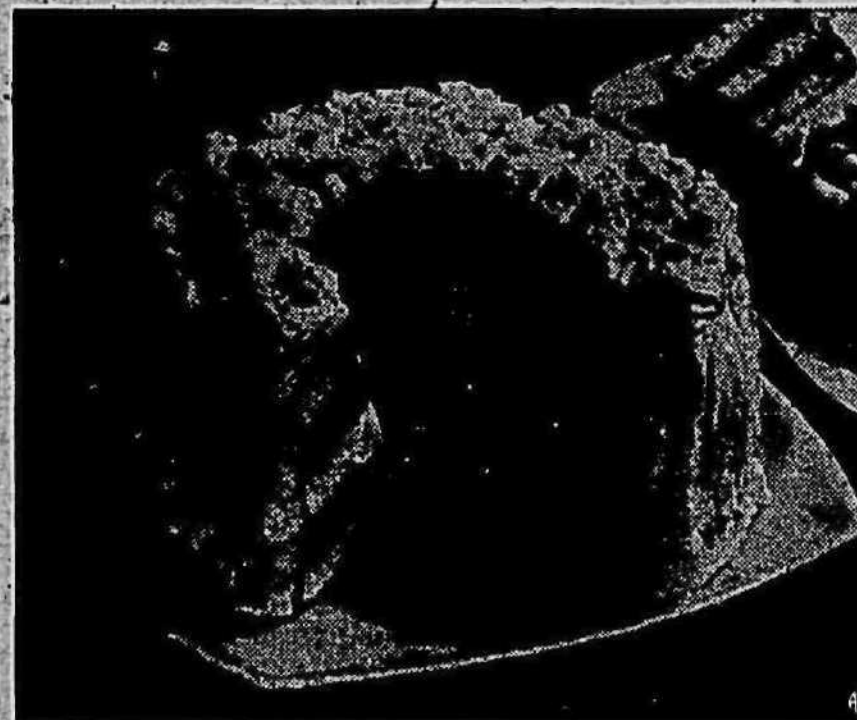

Among the symptoms of toxemia of pregnancy are swelling of the limbs, high blood pressure, and headache. Usually the condition strikes during the last three months of pregnancy.

Recently a team of Boston doctors reported that the antibiotics penicillin and terramycin both act to offset these symptoms. They said the drugs were beneficial because they appeared to neutralize or eliminate circulating toxins.

The doctors hope that they may be able to reduce the mortality rate (around 40 per cent) for infants delivered from women suffering from toxemia. They found in one case that when the antibiotics were administered at the first sign of the condition the baby was saved despite the fact that the mother was suffering from diabetes and high blood pressure.

Party Pretty Angel Cake

For the many summer occasions when you'll want to serve a cool, light, picture-pretty dessert with an iced beverage, angel food cake is the perfect starting point. And such desserts are easy, too, when you start with an un-iced, packaged angel food cake from your grocer's ready-to-eat cake department. These cakes, are made from cook book recipes, like your own, and are light and tender, and delicately flavored.

A pretty way to use an un-iced angel cake is to split the cake horizontally into three layers, and put the layers back together again with a chocolate filling. The cake is iced just before serving with flavored whipped cream. Your guests will love it.

Angel Cake Supreme

- | | |
|---------------------|------------------------------|
| 1 1/2 cups milk | 1/2 cup margarine or butter |
| 1/4 cup flour | 1/2 cup confectioners' sugar |
| 1/4 cup sugar | 1 un-iced angel cake |
| 3 tablespoons cocoa | 1/2 pint whipping cream |

Heat about 1/4 cup of the milk and stir remaining milk gradually into the flour, sugar and cocoa which have been sifted together. Add moistened flour mixture to hot milk and cook five minutes over direct heat, stirring constantly. Cool to room temperature. Cream fat until soft. Blend in confectioners' sugar. Stir into the cooled cocoa mixture. Cut cake into three horizontal slices. Spread filling between layers. Chill 10 to 12 hours. Frost with flavored whipped cream. Serves eight.

Cadmus was a prince of Phoenicia who slew a dragon and sowed its teeth. From these sprang armed men who fought together until only five were left. They, with Cadmus, founded Thebes. Cadmus is said to have introduced the alphabet into Greece.

SHORT STORY

Last Resort

By James Braxton

BEING of a sensitive and retiring disposition Dorothy was made unhappy by the attention she attracted because of her affliction. If being left-handed can be called an affliction.

Not until she had graduated from high school and entered Brown-ing's College for Women did she become aware of her conspicuousness. In Buttersfield, her home town, folks were used to her; in Brown-ing's it was different. Her roommate, Agnes Hutchins, first mentioned it.

"Why, for heaven's sake, darling, you're practically writing upside down!"

During the first three years of college she became pretty successful in remaining inconspicuous.

"Why, for goodness sake, darling, you're practically writing upside down."

For after a while her girl friends got used to the queer manner with which she did things, and forgot to mention them. Only when some one new appeared, some of her classmates' men friends, for example, would she be noticed.

She missed most of the fun of college. If she yearned for male companionship, yearned to be taken to dances and parties, no one ever guessed it—until Bill Smith came along.

The party wasn't prearranged. Duncan Hartley had dated Agnes Hutchins. At the last minute he called and said a friend of his was up from the South, and could Agnes get another girl? Agnes could and promised. But when she tried she discovered that every one in the dorm was busy that night. She called Duncan, but Duncan had left, and so as a last resort, she appealed to Dorothy.

Bill Smith was tall and dark and quiet spoken. He had nice eyes and a pleasant smile and a way of making you feel that the world was all right. They drove out to Spittton's, on the Post road, in Duncan's car and ordered dinner. Dorothy, remembering her affliction, dreading the moment when the soup arrived and Bill or Duncan made a crack about her affliction, hesitated before starting to eat, considered pleading lack of hunger—and then suddenly she saw Bill Smith pick up his spoon and dip it into his soup. Her heart gave a bound. Bill was left handed! And Bill was pretty awkward about it, too!

It was as if iron bonds that had held Dorothy in restraint for years had suddenly fallen away. She blossomed, and blossoming had an effect on Bill Smith that was miraculous.

In fact, it did go beyond the bonds of friendship, for that June, after a spring of gay and thrillingly happy dates with Bill, he proposed marriage. Dorothy, not daring to dream that his interest in her went that deep, though secretly hoping that such was the case, accepted, after a breathless moment of ecstasy, in which he held her tight enfolded in his arms and spoke words that few girls can hear without either thinking them utterly ridiculous and absurd or all-important and sincere.

They planned to be married the next fall. During the summer Bill came out to Buttersfield and met the family. Her father and mother and brother liked him instantly. If they hadn't Dorothy would have thought them crazy, for no one in her estimation, could be so glorious as left-handed Bill Smith.

Two days before the wedding Dorothy set in her bedroom window and watched Bill and her brother, Tom, playing tennis in the courts beyond the hydrangeas. And as she watched, a curious feeling of doubt possessed her.

An hour later she asked Bill to walk with her through the woods beyond the house. When they were well out of sight, she stopped him and said: "Bill, I just watched you and Tom playing tennis."

"Now don't rub it in," Bill grinned. "Tom's had more practice."

"It isn't that, Bill." She looked at him intently. "Bill, you were playing with your right hand!"

Bill's mouth fell open. Blood rushed into his cheeks. He swallowed, tried to speak and couldn't.

"Bill," Dorothy went on, "you aren't left-handed at all. You only pretended to be—because you thought I'd be embarrassed. You've been pretending all along."

Now you can ride in draft-free coolness at the temperature level you choose—even when the outside reading is 110° and more.

Now you can take a full complement of passengers through the thick of traffic on a sweltering day—and each one of you will keep looking and feeling fresh as a daisy at dewtime.

Air intakes on each side of car introduce outside air into system.

You do this with the compact Buick AIRCONDITIONER—the completely practical unit available at extra cost in 1953 SUPER and ROADMASTER Sedan and Riviera models.

But note this: what Buick put into its AIRCONDITIONER goes beyond the usual.

For the advanced design of this Buick unit provides dual roof ducts that distribute up to 300 cubic feet of cooled, freshened, filtered, air per minute to all parts of the car interior evenly and constantly—without icy blasts and drafts on your neck, shoulders, legs.

Grilles in Buick's exclusive dual roof ducts insure draft-free distribution of conditioned air—and also provide individual control of air direction as desired.

What's more, these exclusive roof ducts have individually controlled air directors above the side windows. So each window-seat passenger can guide a gentle breeze of conditioned air exactly where he wants it.

Of course, the Buick AIRCONDITIONER is automatic.

You switch it on, choose the temperature setting you want—and that level of coolness is maintained constantly. It thoroughly conditions the air around you—automatically. It carries off heat, stale air, tobacco smoke—automatically. It continuously introduces outside air into the system—automatically.

It's fast-acting, too. Even after an hour or more locked up under summer's hottest sun, the car interior can be brought to a delightfully cool comfort in a matter of minutes.

Return air grilles on package shelf help maintain continuous circulation of conditioned, pollen-free air.

And it's really compact. The cooling unit itself fits neatly on a narrow shelf in the big trunk compartment—leaves plenty of room for luggage and the like.

Why not drop in on us and try a demonstration?

You'll find that the Buick AIRCONDITIONER with its exclusive dual roof ducts is the ultimate comfort in hot-climate driving.

Brucellosis Spreads In Dozens of Ways

Farmers worrying over the problem of keeping bovine brucellosis out of their herds were given some pointers recently by the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The association points out that there are a dozen ways in which the disease can be spread to clean cattle, but that the most common way is through importations from strange herds.

Control authorities recommend that newly-purchased cattle from recently-tested herds should be isolated 30 days before having them re-tested. Cattle bought from untested herds should be tested immediately and isolated for another test in 60 days.

Brucellosis can spread from diseased hogs, truck and box cars which have been carrying diseased stock. Buyers, salesmen or visitors may bring in germs on their clothing or shoes, or the disease may spread from stagnant water or slow-moving streams past infested farms.

Miniature Church
Youngsters 2 to 8 years old comprise the congregation of the Little Church of Dinuba (Cal.). The miniature church is 23 by 34 ft., and all furnishings are built to scale.

Skin Area
How many square inches of skin are left exposed by a woman's two-piece bathing suit? The average suit on the average woman covers 500 square inches, and leaves 3,000 square inches exposed.

Army Worm Invasion Expected Here Soon

Army worms, pesky little crawlers who eat the fields barren so that man might starve, are expected to invade Lake county en masse this week, according to a warning from Farm Adviser Ray T. Nicholas received from the University of Illinois.

All farmers are urged to examine their fields, and report the first presence of the worms to the Farm Bureau immediately so that precautions might be taken.

The first actual report of army worms in Lake county came on Wednesday afternoon of last week from John Edmunds, 2228 Kristan ave., North Chicago, who said they were in his apple trees, tomato plants, and "crawling all over the ground and sidewalk."

It has not been officially verified, however, that the worms harrasing the North Chicagoan are army worms.

Army worms, which are attacking 30 downstate counties, are described as looking much like a caterpillar, only not upholstered. They are brown in color, with a dirty-white stripe down the back.

They spread in masses across a field, and do not leave until destruction is complete. Unless controlled, they will eat for two weeks to a month before forming cocoons. First they devour grain fields, preferring oats, barley, and winter wheat. Then they consume corn and grasses.

The county farm bureau advises applying 1 1/2 to 2 pounds of parathion per acre to crops where the worms are spotted, before the crops can be too seriously damaged.

State Banner Contest Judged at Springfield On Mon. Afternoon

Judging of 34 county winners to select the championship design in Gov. William G. Stratton's contest for an official Illinois State Fair flag, was held Monday afternoon at the state fair grounds at Springfield.

Among the entries in the competition was one by Clark Mangus of Lake Villa, a high school senior. Clark's entry was judged the best in Lake county, and was forwarded to the state capital for final judging.

The contest was limited to senior class members of Illinois public and parochial high schools. The student whose design was selected as best will receive a $500 U. S. Defense bond from Gov. Stratton at the opening of the Illinois State Fair on Aug. 14.

State Superintendent of Public Instruction Vernon Nickell headed the statewide committee at Monday's official judging. County winners were picked by a committee composed of the county superintendent of schools, a representative of the farm bureau, and of the local newspaper which serves the county.

Telephone friends aid polio victim

Finish work on home when illness strikes

Polio had stopped all Scott Smith's projects on his Tower Lake home. But his telephone friends took over—organized an 18-man "paint brush and hammer team"—finished the new roof and painted the trim and garage.

Scott Smith and his family will never forget that Saturday morning after Labor Day when a 13-car caravan rolled to a stop in front of their home.

Out stepped 18 men—telephone men from ten communities, some as far as 70 miles away. But theirs wasn't telephone work.

Converging on the house, they went to work with paint brushes, hammers, muscles and good will.

Scotty, a fellow worker at Illinois Bell, had been rushed to the hospital with polio a few weeks before. Besides an unfinished new roof, there were other tasks around the house that had to be postponed—all too heavy for Mrs. Smith and the three youngsters, aged 7, 6 and 5, to handle.

Scotty's telephone friends got busy. "Scotty's sick, let's give him a hand." Over the telephone they organized a rescue squad. Meanwhile, another group, Scotty's neighbors in Tower Lake, had the same idea. A week after polio hit him, they gave the house a full coat of paint.

On that Saturday after Labor Day, the 18-man telephone team moved into action. Before they were through, they had finished the roof, given the garage a double paint job, painted the screens, washed the kitchen walls and ceiling, mowed the lawn—even waxed the car.

Best of all, just released from the hospital, Scotty was up for "his" day. On crutches, he watched "Operation Smith House" with his wife and the three youngsters.

There are a lot of things that make Illinois Bell "a good place to work." To mention a few, good wages, sickness and disability benefits, promotions from within the ranks, regular salary increases and a liberal pension plan.

These are all important, but just as important in any job are the people around you. In the telephone company, you work with helpful, friendly men and women—typified by this 18-man crew which rallied to help Scott Smith and his family in time of need. Illinois Bell Telephone Company.

GOOD JOBS ATTRACT GOOD PEOPLE

When the people who work for a company recommend it to their relatives as a good place to work, you can be pretty sure that it is!

About 5,500 Illinois Bell people have "kinkfolk" in the telephone business—sons, daughters, brothers, sisters or other relatives. That's a pretty sure sign that telephone jobs look good to the people who really know.

Little League Sluggers Hitting Their Stride In Junior Baseball Season

Dodgers Lead League With Three Wins, No Losses; Sox Are Second

"Take me out to the ball game" was the byword for Antioch's Little Leaguers, who played three games during the past week—one of them a Sunday double-header.

With the season well under way, the Dodgers lead the league with three wins and no losses, followed by the second place Sox, with two wins and no losses. The Cubs are third with two wins and one defeat.

The Yanks have a one win and two loss record, with the Tigers sporting two defeats and no wins, while the hapless Giants hold down the cellar position with three goose eggs.

Double Header Sunday

The Giants suffered a right smart shelling at the hands of the Sox last Wednesday, 17 to 4, with home runs scored by Kropecky of the Giants and Jarvis of the Sox.

The first game of Sunday's double bill saw the Dodgers edge out the Cubs 10 to 9 in a close one, with homers belted out by Richard Prange and Donald Pyle, both of the Cubs. The season's first double play occurred in that game, when Cain of the Dodgers flied out to Pyle, Cubs' pitcher, and Rieff was caught off base at first in a put-out by Jim Verkest.

In the second game, the Yanks scored an easy 5 to 2 victory over the Giants, although they were trailing two to nothing up to the last half of the fourth inning.

Pony League Score

In the Pony League Sunday, Antioch humbled Libertyville 10 to 4—as far as errors were concerned. In baseball, however, it was the other way around, with Libertyville trouncing the home towners 16 to 10 in a seven-inning.

Final score was Libertyville, 16 runs, 14 hits, and 4 errors; Antioch 10 runs, 12 hits, and 10 errors.

Perfect batting averages are held by three Antioch players, Lubkeman, Haley, and Hanke, all of whom are hitting 1.000. High batters in the Little League not mentioned last week, are Jim Verkest, hitting .666, and Don Pyle, .500.

The next Little League tourney will be Sunday, a Father's Day double header, with the Cubs playing the Giants, and the Sox squaring off against the Dodgers.

Farmers Without Wheat Register at PMA Office

Farmers on land on which no wheat was seeded for harvest or use during 1951, 1952, or 1953, may apply for a 1954 wheat acreage allotment, Donald J. Adams, chairman of the Lake County Production and Marketing administration reported this week.

To be considered for allotment a farmer must apply to the PMA office by June 24. Application blanks are available at the office in Grayslake.

Horrible Disaster Can Be Expected Tomorrow

Nothing short of disaster might result with Wladek "Killer" Kowalski facing Ronnie Etchison in the next muscle event at Lake County stadium in Round Lake Park tomorrow night.

Kowalski is probably the most brutal warrior in wrestling during an unearthly match in Montreal last year, he tore the left ear off Yukon Eric with a knee-drop from the top rope. He scales 275 pounds and stands 6 feet 7 inches. But he won't have an easy time against Etchison tomorrow, whose 230 pounds contain plenty of science and know-how. He was once Golden Gloves section boxing champ, and now stands among the most popular matmen, with 13 fan clubs in the country.

Etchison served with high honors in World War II, leading a "recon" outfit through Europe to help draw fire for the Infantry. Kowalski is from Canada, and Etchison from St. Joe, Mo.

The show will also feature Vincent Lopez, one time word champ, against Car Engstrom, former professional adagio dancer. An Australian tag team match will see Zack Malkov and Teddy Marshall paired off against Bull Montana and Benny Trudell.

CAVE BEAUTY

MADISON, WIS. — Surrounded by stalactites, Jeanne Froehlig pauses in Chapel Room of Wisconsin's famous Cave of the Mounds. Discovered on a farm 25 miles west of here in 1939, this beautiful cavern already has attracted well over 1,000,000 students and tourists.

Antioch Consolidated Swim Classes Slated To Begin on Monday

Antioch Consolidated school swim classes, sponsored by the Parent Teachers Association, will begin Monday. Children will meet at 8:15 a. m. at the grade school, and will be transported by bus to the Round Lake pool.

All children must bring swim suits, towels, sweaters or sweat shirts, and girls are also required to bring swim caps. Any plan changes due to inclement weather will be announced over Radio station WKRS, Waukegan, at 8:05 a.m.

Vets Needing Treatment Should Contact VA Office

Springfield—Veterans who need treatment for a disease or injury adjudicated as incurred or aggravated in service were urged today by the Illinois Veterans Commission to apply for out-patient, medical treatment authorization.

After eligibility is established, veterans with a service connected disability rating may secure home town treatment from authorized private physicians, the IVC announcement said.

Disability ratings from 0 per cent to 100 per cent qualify a veteran for treatment.

IVC service officers throughout the state are prepared to assist veterans who desire the advantages of this benefit.

In Lake county, veterans should contact the Illinois Veterans Commission service officer at 221 W. Washington st., in Waukegan.

ANTIOCH MAN INJURED

A 21-year-old Antioch motorist, Patrick Quilty, suffered cuts and bruises Sunday night when his car was forced from the road by another vehicle, and crashed into a tree on Rte. 21 south of Lake Villa. The driver of the other car escaped, unidentified.

National Magazine Will Feature Illinois in July

In conjunction with the Illinois article will appear a letter by Gov. William G. Stratton. The governor's letter, written for publication in this issue, extolls the virtues of Illinois and invites people from far and near to visit us.

The magazine is sent free of charge to anyone who asks for it, providing he, at the same time, indicates the type of business, farm, ranch or income property in which he is interested, and the location in the Western, Mid-western or Central state in which he desires it to be located. The local Chamber of Commerce has been advised that a copy will be available to them immediately following the publication date, July 1st. Announce New Promotion At Abbott Laboratories

Abbott Laboratories' Chemical Sales Division today announced the promotion of Robert W. Nichols from assistant sales manager to sales manager. He will report to Floyd K. Thayer, vice president and director of the chemical sales division.

Nichols has been in Abbott's bulk chemical sales division since 1947 and has been assistant sales manager since 1951. He started with the company in 1941 and returned from four years' military service in 1946 to join Abbott's production planning group.

Nichols attended Northwestern University, Lake Forest College and the Industrial Management Institute at Lake Forest College. He is a member of the Chicago Drug and Chemical association.

He and his wife, the former Barbara O'Neill, live at 1654 Beverly Place, Highland Park. They have a son and two daughters.

Make a Date for Annual Farm-City Picnic: Mayor

Village President James W. McMillen today urged all Antioch residents, to set aside the afternoon of July 15, so that this village might be well represented at the annual Farm-City picnic to be held at Gages Lake.

Sponsored jointly by the Lake County Farm Bureau and the Waukegan-North Chicago Chamber of Commerce, the picnic is designed to bring about closer relations between city and rural dwellers.

Highlights of the day will include the selections of a rural and city queen, a cattle show, and sporting events. Golfing enthusiasts will be able to exercise their talents at the nearby Brae Loch Country club.

In Memoriam

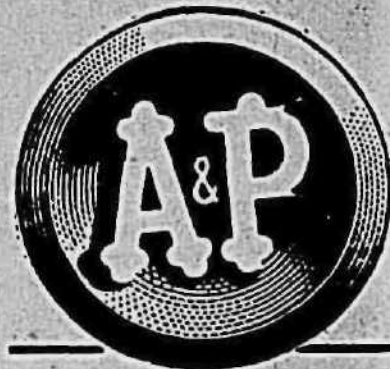

William Golden—In loving memory of our husband and father, who passed away four years ago June 16. A light is from our household gone, A voice we loved is stilled, A place is vacant in our home Which never can be filled. Some may think you are forgotten, Though on earth you are no more; But in memory you are with us As you always were before.

Sadly missed by
